I am a beginner web developer with basic knowledge of HTML5, CSS3 and JavaScript. Previously I've been working in the oil and gas sector for more than 5 years, mainly in administrative positions. At the moment I am changing my professional sphere since I find myself being fascinated by web development and programming. I suppose that programming is a great platform to fully realize my potential and apply personal, analytical skills and advanced knowledge of foreign languages to become a better professional.

Current goals:
- To work as part of a team;
- To improve my knowledge and competence in web development;
- To become a professional front-end developer.
